

Fade to Black

WRITTEN AND PRODUCED
BY KRISSA ROSSBUND
PHOTOGRAPHY BY CARSON DOWNING

AS THE SEASON
SHIFTS TO FALL, LIGHT MAY BE DIMMING, BUT STYLE IS NOT

The sky is often the director of what's going on in design. Right now, it's exchanging hours of blue that's brightened by the sunlight for an expanse of darkness that is lightened by the glow of the moon and stars.

Black and midnight blue are always classic, and the latest batch from the world of design does not disappoint with its impact. Like a little black dress that awaits the addition of shine and glamour from jewelry, black furniture lends a foundation for a host of stylish accessories and embellishments, too. Mirror, smoky glass, and accents of gold enhance pieces that enchant with exaggerated elegance. In other cases, marble swirls striking shades together, and modern fabrics cover traditional silhouettes with fresh drama.

Whether you are comforted by tonal environments filled with deep and rich tones or need just a single piece for contrast, choose something special that stands on its own.

WHITE GLOVE

CR Laine "Barrie" swivel chair in Timberland Midnight fabric. Sandra Jordan "Double-Sided" throw in straw-color alpaca. Wildwood Home "Black Caviar" side table. Wendover Into the City Life abstract artwork.

Opposite top: (Left) Odette Collection "Albert" wing chair. Design Supply "Zak + Fox" pillow. Ann Gish "Ribbon" knit silk throw and "Inro" geometric, "Enchanted" floral, and "Shashiko Hishi-Moyo" stitched pillows. (Right) Arteriors Ebonized acacia wood and Harvest velvet contrast on the "Winston" bench. GP & J Baker "Royal Garden" velvet is in amber/jade. Sunday Visits Pottery vase with round nodules and abstract by artist Karen J. Covey. Amy Heywood "Transfigured" painting in gold frame. Design Supply Sally Threlkeld Square Series artwork in black frame. Opposite bottom: (Left) CR Laine "Brinkley" chair is covered in "Remarkable Blackstone." Marigold Living "Chinese Garden" pillow. Sandra Jordan Microsuede fringe throw in Straw. Wildwood Home "Carlo" Italian ceramic bowl. (Right) Baker Beechwood follows a subtle curve on the "Serenity" chair with ivory upholstery. Arteriors Brass adds a twist to the sleek "Vermillion" chair. Denise McGaha for Wildwood Home Bronze metal elevates antique mirroring on the "Brazen" mirror.